War's Gravest Labor Crisis Nears Climax

FDR DELAYS STRIKE BAN

Labor Board May Split
Over Granting Portal
To Portal Wage

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, June 18 — The War Labor Board today denied the United Mine Workers' demands for underground travel pay and ordered the miners and coal operators to sign an agreement outlawing strikes for the duration of the war.

After 10 days of deliberations the War Labor board shattered John L. Lewis' last hope for a substantial pay increase for the 540,000 members of his mine union.

WASHINGTON, June 18 — The gravest labor crisis of the war moved toward a new climax today with a third coal strike on the horizon and the fate of the War Labor Board in jeopardy.

Events of the next 48 hours promised to disclose whether the nation's 540,000 miners again will leave the coal fields, whether the WLB will be shorn of its labor representation, and to what degree the government's entire labor policy is imperiled.

Official Washington waited tensely for these developments: The WLB's decision in the prolonged coal-wage dispute. Acceptance or rejection of the verdict by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union.

Approval or veto of the drastic Connally-Smith anti-strike bill by President Roosevelt.

WLB Meets

As he WLB met behind closed doors to conclude its deliberations, indications mounted that the ultimate decision will be unfavorable to the miners, heightening the possibility of another work stoppage when the current strike truce expires at midnight Sunday.

The possibility existed that Lewis might refuse to sign a contract with the coal operators on the WLB's terms, but might agree to maintain uninterrupted production of coal as long as the mines remain under government management.

The 200-man policy committee of the UMW was standing by in Washington to act on the WLB decision. A meeting of the group was scheduled for 2:30 p. m. EWT.

Rejection of the board's decision by Lewis, with the attendant threat of another strike, might lead President Roosevelt to brush aside the protests of organization labor against the Connally bill and sign it into law. Reports filtered through congressional circles that Mr. Roosevelt would sign the legislation.

The measure would impose stiff fines and imprisonment against any one promoting a strike in a (Continued on Page Three)

Big Bombs Wreck Jap Air Field

Allies Turn Port Boela Into Roaring Mass Of Destructive Flame

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 18—The Jap-controlled oil field at Port Boela on the occupied Netherlands East Indies island of Ceram was turned into a roaring mass of flames today as a result of direct bomb hits scored by Allied heavy bombers.

Allied airmen who blasted the oil field situated more than 500 miles north of Port Darwin, Australia, reported that billowing clouds of smoke were streaming into the air to a height of 3,000 feet as they left the target.

The destructive raid on Port Boela was announced in a communique from headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur which disclosed heavy assaults on three important Jap airdromes in the island arc north of Australia.

Medium bombers and attack planes at the same time joined in an attack on a convoy of 20 Jap barges off the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, destroying eight and damaging the remainder.

The Japs retaliated with two air raids in New Guinea. Eighteen enemy bombers escorted by 22 fighters attacked three active villages while four Jap bombers ineffectually raided Port Moresby, principal Allied base in New Guinea. One of the latter planes, hit by anti-aircraft was last seen in flames and losing altitude.

Fires visible for 40 miles were ignited by medium bombers in a night attack on the enemy airdrome at Langger in the Kai Islands, between western New Guinea and Australia. Numerous fires in dispersal areas indicated a heavy toll of grounded Japanese planes. Direct bomb hits silenced a Bofors gun and three heavy anti-aircraft batteries.

The Japanese airdrome at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, was raided twice. Medium bombers and attack planes swept in at night and strafed the runway and adjacent supply dumps. A heavy (Continued on Page Three)

OPA MAY BREAK IN ON CHAPLIN'S WEDDED BLISS

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—While Charlie Chaplin, the white-haired London comic, was honeymooning "somewhere in central California" today with his fourth "teen-age bride, OPA officials launched an inquiry into how he managed his motor trip under gasoline rationing.

Samuel Leask, Jr., Southern California OPA director, revealed he had telephoned OPA officials at Santa Barbara asking for a complete investigation.

Chaplin and his newest bride, Oona O'Neill, 18, daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill, were reported to be in seclusion in the vicinity of Santa Barbara.

Leask said he was checking assertions that the Chaplin wedding entourage had been sighted speeding toward Carpinteria, Cal., for the nuptials at an "80-mile-an-hour" clip.

"We just want to know what's going on," Leask said, "and if there is any violation, any car driver will tell you what will happen."

Meanwhile, red-haired Joan Barry, 23-year-old former screen protegee of the pantomime comedian, also remained in seclusion.

Miss Barry, who claims Chaplin is the father of her unborn child, was kept under constant care of physicians at a downtown Los Angeles hotel room.

AROUSED HOUSE DRIVES ON OPA

Members Move To Outlaw Subsidies, Curb Edicts Of Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 18—The full fire of an aroused house centered on the Office of Price Administration today as members moved to write provisions into the agency's annual appropriation outlawing subsidies and the extra-statutory enforcement of OPA edicts.

At the same time Republican critics of the agency—which in recent days has been rocked repeatedly by attacks from both sides of congress—aimed off amendments at the Office of War Information and the Board of Economic Warfare. All three units are covered in the $2,991,000,000 omnibus bill for the nation's 18 war agencies.

Rep. Taber (R) N. Y. spearhead in the four drive against OPA and OWI, said he also would introduce amendments to "civilize" the BEW.

The house showdown on OPA and its proposed $155,000,000 fund came but a few hours after counsel for the Smith committee made public a "confidential" OPA memorandum which he charged constituted evidence that the agency was trying to dominate free enterprise through profit controls.

Files Provide Data

The information was obtained under subpoena, committee counsel Harold L. Allen disclosed, from files shipped to his West Virginia home by David Ginsberg, who recently resigned as OPA general counsel.

"ZOOT SUITERS" REAL PATRIOTS, TOKYO THINKS

By International News Service
A "zoot-suiter" was defined today by the Tokyo radio as an American isolationist willing to shed his own blood to foster ideals against war.

The unique interpretation was given in a broadcast commenting on recent "zoot-suit" incidents in the United States which was reported to the Office of War Information.

"The American zoot-suiters are isolationist and anti-war fighters," said the Nipponese commentator.

"They are strong, courageous, young men who have banded together into a nationwide army to express by physical force their disapproval of the war. They are not afraid to spill blood—even their own blood—but they are intent on spilling it in their own country for their own sacred ideals."

JURY'S LENIENCY TO BOY KILLER ANGERS JUDGE

NEW YORK, June 18 — A 17-year-old youth convicted of first-degree murder heard his life described as "not worth preserving" by the judge who will deliver his sentence.

Finding John Scheer guilty of murder, the jury recommended he be given a life sentence. Judge James G. Wallace, indicated he would follow the jury's suggestion, but commented that he didn't "follow the jury's logic." Scheer was found guilty of killing Berbert Holtz, 34, film exchange employee during an attempted robbery.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well, if Mussolini's gang is through with those black shirts we can use 'em.

Laundry service is down to an if-when-and-maybe basis and the new national color is tattle-tale grey.

Only this week the New York city council voted to investigate Mayor LaGuardia. They're trying to find out where he's getting clean, white shirts.

Science has been working for years on the theory of heavy air but Brooklyn has solved it in three weeks.

There are 75,000 families in the borough who haven't had any laundry service at all for that length of time.

The laundries are trying to get a ruling that they are engaged in an essential industry, but the best the government will do is agree that a man can get clean for business reasons.

He mustn't get starched and ironed for his friends or family.

If this keeps up, New Yorkers no longer will be alone. They will be untouchable.

A stranger will know the town even before he sees the high buildings.

Thought for the day: The government says we are getting filthy rich and this time they're half right.

ITALIANS FLEE IN TERROR FROM ISLAND CAPITAL

LONDON, June 18—The effect on the Italian populace of Allied air assaults on the island of Sardinia was emphasized today in a broadcast by the German radio which said that the population of Cagliari, the island's capital, had shrunk from 100,000 to under 7,000.

SERVICES CLAIM 23 LOCAL BOYS

Many Recent High School Graduates Slated For Army Or Navy

Twelve youths today are in Uncle Sam's navy, 10 more are in the army and one is in the marine corps, making a total of 23 acceptances out of a contingent of 32 Circleville and Pickaway county youths, most of them recent high school graduates, who went to the Columbus induction center Wednesday for final physical examination.

Six were rejected, while three remain at the induction center for additional physical examination. Several of the rejected boys, whose names cannot be published under Selective Service regulations, said that they had been told to return soon for another examination. Defective eyesight caused rejection of several of the boys.

Big Navy Draft

The dozen boys now in the navy mark the largest group to be taken for this service since the navy started to draft boys from Selective Service lists.

New Holland: James Roscoe Shipley.

SAN FRANCISCO AREA HAS ALERT OF 37 MINUTES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18—Army officials explained today a 37 minute air raid alert in the San Francisco bay area when the presence of an unidentified target was reported in the area late last night.

The following official statement was issued by headquarters of the Western Defense Command and Fourth Army:

"The San Francisco air defense wing issued a preliminary 'Yellow' air raid alert to cities in the San Francisco bay area at 10:40 p. m., June 17, 1943, when an unidentified target was reported approaching the area. A second 'Blue' alert was ordered at 10:54 p. m. Radio silence was ordered at 11:25 p. m. The all clear was given at 11:25 p. m. No blackout was ordered."

SOLON WARNS EXTRAVAGANCE TO STIR REVOLT

"Unnecessary Expenditures" By Washington Draw Fire Of Georgian

TAXPAYERS KEEP WATCH

Expression Of Public's Feeling Foreseen At Ballot Box

WASHINGTON, June 18—Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate finance committee, today warned of a revolt of the people against governmental waste and extravagance.

"There is a revulsion of feeling which won't be delayed many months," George said. "The people will express their feeling at the ballot box."

With the people bearing heavy taxes and the treasury calling for more, George declared that the nation's economic structure may break and the war be lost by continuing unnecessary expenditures.

"You can lose the war through extravagance and waste and you can lose it through lack of manpower and raw materials necessary to maintain your civilian economy," he said.

George's warning followed the report of the Byrd economy committee condemning government waste and calling for elimination of 300,000 federal employees.

Public Cooperative

While the nation wants to back the war effort 100 percent, George said it would be helpful if the army and navy could cut down the $100,000,000,000 military budget.

"We give the war and navy departments everything they want," he said. "But we would not have any trouble paying one-half the cost of the war if the army and navy cut down to $75,000,000,000."

"And there would be more manpower and raw materials to provide the materials needed for the civilian economy. Regardless of what the army and navy thinks, there has got to be a greater regard for manpower and distribution of raw materials necessary to maintain the home front."

"Other countries have made the mistake of bleeding their domestic (Continued on Page Three)

WEST DISPUTES ELEANOR'S IDEA OF ZOOT SUIT

LOS ANGELES, June 18 — Disputing a comment made by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt that Los Angeles zoot-suit warfare had been of a racial nature, Preston Hotchkiss, president of the California State Chamber of Commerce, today issued the following statement:

"Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was quoted in effect that the recent so-called 'zoot-suit' riots in Los Angeles were in the nature of race riots, and that she had been worried for some time about the discrimination against the Mexicans and negroes.

Jap Brutality!

JAPANESE BRUTALITY in the current war reached a new low when a Zero pilot drove his plane at Lieut. Samuel S. Logan, 22, of Paolo, Kan., as he parachuted to earth, attempting to kill him with the plane's propeller. On the third run at Logan, floating helplessly to earth, the Jap succeeded in slashing off one of Logan's feet and part of the other with his plane. The U. S. flyer survived and was later rescued. Before driving his plane at Logan, the Jap attempted to kill Logan with the plane's guns. (International)

NUMBERS GAME BREATHING LAST

New State Law Enforcement Starts When Governor Signs, Mayor Says

Mayor Ben H. Gordon today sounded the death knell for the numbers racket in Circleville, declaring that the day that Governor Bricker signs the bill which calls for prison terms for persons convicted of participating in the racket marks the end of the numbers gambling in Circleville.

"I can't quite imagine anyone wishing to take a chance on a prison term to participate in the numbers racket," the mayor declared. "No more numbers will be written in Circleville after the bill becomes law."

It is understood that the governor may sign the anti-numbers bill at almost any time.

The mayor pointed out that the city treasury will lose $100 every month after the ban on numbers becomes effective, two local operators putting up $50 each every month as a "fine" for operating the racket.

10 CENT COFFEE SENDS MAN INTO EXPENSIVE RAGE

ROCKFORD, Ill., June 18—On second thought today, Jack Mullen, 41, of Milwaukee, agreed maybe he had been a little too violent in his protest against a 10-cent charge for a cup of coffee in a Rockford sandwich shop.

His protest took this form, police said: He insulted the waitress, dumped a plate of eggs on the floor, tossed a frying pan from the stove, and ripped out a partition.

And the coffee eventually cost him, not 10 cents, but $56.15. That was what he was fined in police court.

WOMEN MAKE MUNITIONS

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 18—A trend of the times was disclosed today in the report of officials that 1,000 percent more women are working at the Rock Island arsenal than there were two years ago. The increase in male employees is only 50 percent. Employment figures at the arsenal are double those of 1941.

GREAT YANKEE BOMBERS RAID ISLAND DROMES

Big British Wellingtons Rain Destruction On Port Of Naples

BRENNER PASS CLOSED

Russ Radio Says Germany Ready To Move Valuables Out Of Italy

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 18—Damage to only one American merchant ship and one landing barge was reported today by the navy during the gigantic air battle over Guadalcanal in which U. S. pilots shot down 77 of 120 raiding Japanese planes.

The navy also said that American losses in the great battle were six planes and that one pilot was rescued. U. S. personnel losses were placed at 25 killed, 20 injured and 22 missing.

There was no explanation for the presence of the American ship and no substantiation of Japanese claims that enemy planes attacked an American convoy, and sank eight U. S. ships and damaged another.

By International News Service
New and heavy assaults on Sicily and another Allied aerial attack on the Italian mainland port of Naples were announced officially today as reports from inside Europe told of further Axis preparations to meet invasion threats.

The Sicilian airdromes at Comiso and Bisari were the latest objectives of big American Liberator bombers from the Middle East, a communique from Cairo disclosed.

The newest assault on Naples was reported from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in North Africa. Formations of gigantic British Wellingtons plastered the dock area, already seriously damaged by earlier raids by bombers from both North Africa and the Middle East.

Disclosure of these latest blows in the drive to knock Italy out of the war were accompanied by a Moscow radio report that Hitler had closed the Brenner pass, land gateway to the Reich from Italy.

Quoting Swiss sources, the Russian radio said the pass was shut "apparently for the purpose of evacuating from Italy industrial equipment, capital and other valuables."

Axis Fears Mount

Increasing Axis fears of an Allied blow from the Middle East were indicated by a Rome radio report that large British forces are concentrated at the southern border of Turkey.

A Reuter's dispatch from Ankara said the British had reopened the Turkish-Syrian frontier, which was closed Tuesday to screen Allied troop movements.

New and destructive blows at the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific were announced today from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia.

Allied heavy bombers converted an oil field on the Jap-held island of Ceram, in the Netherlands East Indies, into a roaring inferno in the continued Allied drive to cripple Japan's air strength.

New blows at Japan came in the wake of a crushing defeat of Nipponese air squadrons near Guadalcanal. The navy department's report said 45 enemy fighter planes and 32 bombers were shot down in the battle, against an (Continued on Page Three)

PURSE STOLEN AS HERO SAVES DROWNING BOY

DAVENPORT, Ia., June 18 — Davenport had an anonymous candidate today for the title of "meanest man."

A. J. Lloyd was driving along the Mississippi river levee when he heard the cries of a boy about to drown in the river's swift current. Lloyd removed some of his clothes, plunged into the water and saved the boy's life.

Returning to retrieve his clothes, he discovered that an on-looker on the bank had stolen his bill fold containing $17, his gasoline ration book and important papers.

SHERIFF ENDS AWOL CAREER OF MERLE ANKROM

Soldier Fugitive Slaps
Laurelville Mayor And Lands In Jail

BROTHERS ALSO HELD

Two Arrested On Highway
After Argument In Beer Parlor

Private Merle Ankrom, 23, of Uncle Sam's army, was held in county jail Friday awaiting arrival of military police from Fort Hayes, Columbus, and two brothers, Arthur and Emmett of Circleville, are in jail in Laurelville after an escape in that village Thursday evening.

Private Ankrom is wanted for being absent without leave from his station at the desert training center, Camp Young, Cal. He has been missing since June 6. The soldier has been in Circleville for the last week. He had visited all police officials, telling them he was on furlough. However, notice that he was wanted was received early this week and a lookout has been kept for him each day since then.

Old Offender

Ankrom has already served two guardhouse sentences for being AWOL, his sojourn behind the bars this time is expected to last much longer.

Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious said Ankrom had been staying with his wife in a cabin south of Laurelville and had been using the automobile of his brother, Arthur. A tire went flat on the car Thursday evening and Private Ankrom called his brothers to help him fix it. They went to Laurelville, helped him fix the tire, and then the trio went to a beer parlor.

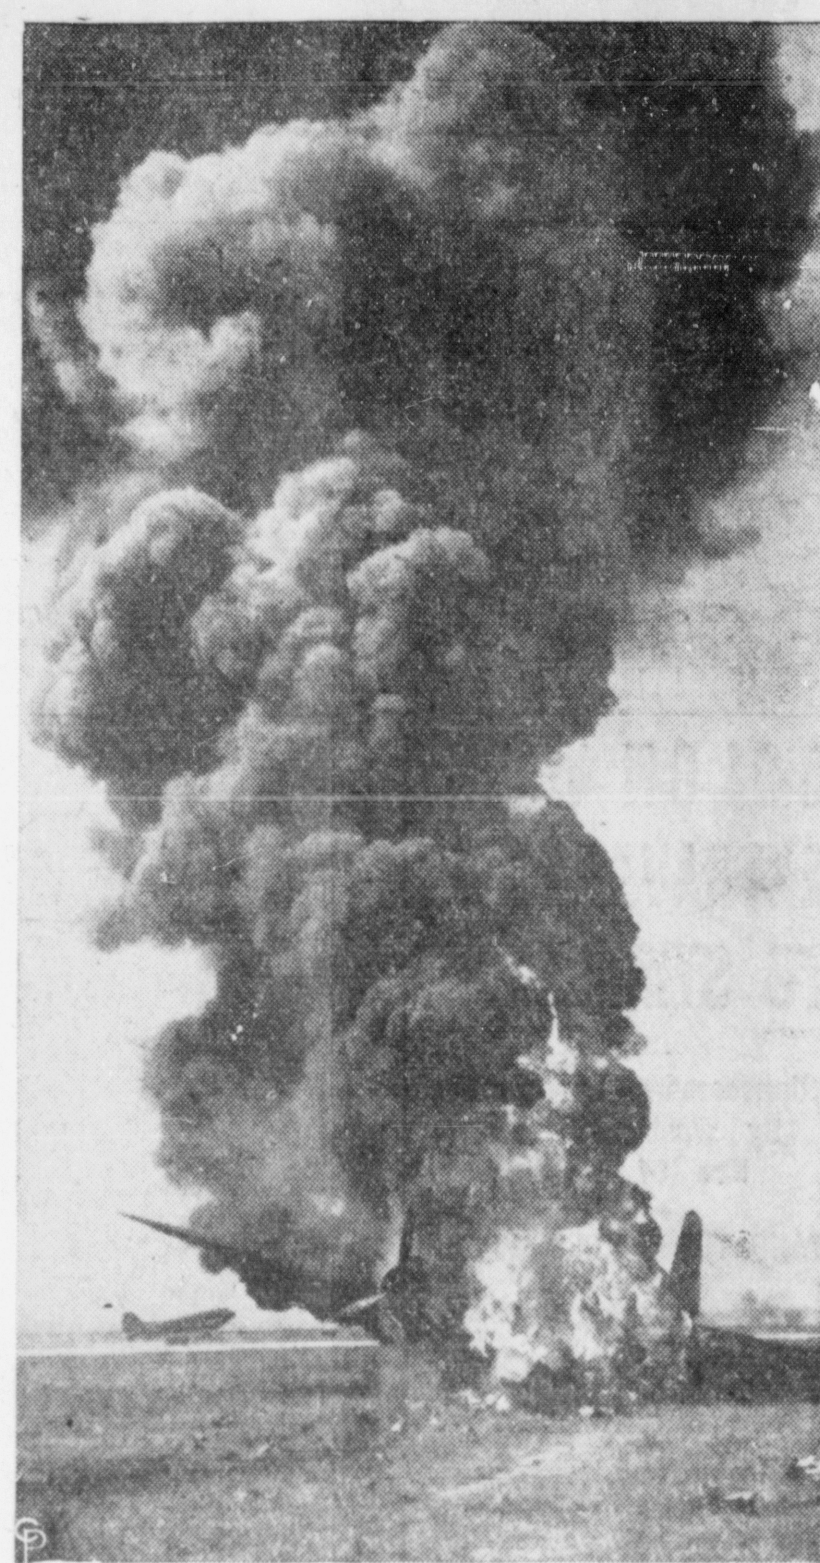

Laurelville authorities said they got noisy and that the beer parlor operator refused to sell them more beer. An argument developed just as Mayor Paul Armstrong walked into the establishment. Private Ankrom slapped the mayor, and then left the place with his brothers.

Trio Arrested

Sheriff's office was called by Laurelville authorities who said that the car bearing the three Ankroms was enroute to Circleville on Route 56. Deputy Pontious intercepted the car and brought all three men to Circleville.

Marshal Claude Churchhouse of Laurelville came to Circleville after the brothers later in the evening, but was permitted to take only Arthur and Emmett Ankrom back to Laurelville with him. He said that Mayor Armstrong would have particularly liked to have Merle there, but Sheriff Charles Radcliff told him he was wanted by army authorities and would have to remain in Pickaway county jail until the army sent for him.

Charges of disorderly conduct will likely be filed against the soldier's brothers.

Windsor's Influence Big Factor In Success Of Anti-Submarine Warfare

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 18 — The Duke of Windsor is too modest to take credit for it, but one reason we are getting ahead of the submarines today goes directly back to his intervention with the U. S. Navy to get a secret anti-submarine device developed and used.

The device was invented by Lt. Comdr. Herluf Holm, an American naval officer born in Denmark, who has been working for years on a method of protecting merchant vessels, and who gave the Navy the benefit of his invention.

Naval bureaucracy, however, held up the device for approximately two years. And it was to help blast the anti-submarine weapon out of this red tape that the Duke of Windsor intervened. Having known Holm and being convinced that his invention had merit, the Duke wrote several letters to high-up friends in Washington urging that Holm's plan get a thorough test.

Chief stumbling blocks were: first, that the Navy is always a perfectionist, wants to have a new weapon absolutely perfect before it is adopted and Holm's invention required considerable experimentation; second, the device became the victim of rivalry between three different Navy bureaus.

They were: (1) the Navy's Ordnance Laboratory which is under the Navy Yard; (2) the Bureau of Ordnance; and (3) the Bureau of Ships. Among these three, it got bogged down. For two whole years the invention moved with snail-like speed, at times didn't move at all.

During at least one of these years, allied shipping was being sunk at the sickening rate of one million tons per month. The public did not know this at the time, but the Navy knew it. Nevertheless, the Holm device was not lifted out of the red tape snarl.

It was to help push the device that the Duke of Windsor put in a friendly hand. Not being an American official, however, he could not be too forthright. So in the end, it was an executive of the War Shipping Administration, Fred Searles, who finally blasted the Holm device loose.

Searles threatened that if the Navy did not get busy and use the anti-submarine weapon, the Maritime Commission would take the invention and place it on all their merchant ships.

This finally got action. Note — Other reasons for the improved submarine situation are: better detection devices, U. S. Air Corps raids on Nazi submarine pens, and especially the fact that with long days and better summer weather, airplane patrols are much more effective.

"WALLACE IN WONDERLAND"

Henry Wallace's global thinking is food for at least one wise-crack, usually from Republicans, at almost every social affair the Vice President attends.

Latest to razz Wallace about it was Alice Roosevelt Longworth. "How do you do, Mr. Vice President," said the acid-tongued Alice when the two met at a cocktail party. "How is everything in never-never land?" "O, about the same as in ing the accuracy of their fire. WAVES have a reputation of being chic and natty, but in addition they are replacing men in many important jobs. The Navy says that the men do not resent being trained by the WAVES.

CORRECTION

Last week this column reported that Vice President Wallace, Attorney General Biddle and Alien Property Custodian Leo Crowley had overruled the State Department, the Commerce Department, and also Nelson Rockefeller on the important principle of establishing international cartels on the German pattern in Latin America. Specifically, it was reported that a plan to place some of Mexico's drug, chemical and dye companies, formerly German, in a monopoly under American Cyanamid, had been blocked, and that President Roosevelt himself had written a note opposing future cartels.

This column regrets that it now has to make a correction. Although the above facts were correct at the time, the State Department is now trying to reverse the President.

For after the conference was over, it was the State Department's job to draft a note to the Mexican Government informing it of the American Government's position. And when the note was shown to representatives of other government departments, they were amazed to find that the American Cyanamid deal was approved after all.

What the State Department did was to condemn monopolies and cartels, but then proceeded to say in effect that Mexico should go ahead with the American Cyanamid deal anyway.

Allen Property Custodian Crowley previously had received written authorization from the President to oppose the American Cyanamid monopoly in Mexico. But now the State Department is reported to be going over Crowley's head to the White House.

The issue is important because the Mexican drug arrangement will set the pattern for future operation of German properties in Latin America—whether they will be in the hands of one big company such as American Cyanamid, or be subject to free competition among various companies.

The pack of early peas was almost completed Thursday night at the Winorr plant with some packing to be handled Friday. The last 48 hours have seen the factory's crew of employees hard at work handling many tons of peas from farms in the area surrounding Circleville.

The second pack, with sweet peas to be handled, will start some time next week. Winorr field men will survey the sweet pea crop Monday to determine how soon the harvest can be started.

The early pea pack has been a

WLB Decision, Action

government-operated war plant or mine. It also would require registration of labor unions, a 30-day "cooling off" period before a walk-out and a secret strike ballot.

CIO President Philip Murray and AFL Chief William Green submitted a memorandum to Mr. Roosevelt asserting that the four labor members of the WLB may be withdrawn from the agency if the Connally bill becomes law. David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, joined in the memorandum.

Labeling the measure a "wicked, vicious bill," and "worst anti-labor bill passed by congress in the last 100 years," the labor leaders declared:

"We seriously question whether AFL or CIO officials can remain on the board, since they could not participate in any case involving one of their affiliated organizations."

Withdrawal of the labor members from WLB probably would open up the board's decision to serious challenge and provoke widespread unrest on the national labor front. Labor's "no-strike" pledge was based primarily on the proposition of having such an agency as the WLB to adjudicate wartime labor disputes.

Continuing their attack upon the Connally bill, the labor leaders said:

"It (the labor bill) imposes a tremendous civil penalty which can destroy the treasury of any union in the United States, provided the plant is a large one and involves a large number of workers. Even one half day's stoppage of work may bring about a penalty of hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"It reestablishes the reprehensible doctrine of conspiracy which employers and anti-labor judges used for 50 years . . . to curtail and prohibit labor unions in their efforts to organize and to obtain the right to bargain collectively. Government by injunction was possible only under this doctrine."

NEVER ENOUGH PLANES

MIDDLETOWN, Pa.—There's no such thing as having too many airplanes or too many spare parts overseas," a colonel remarked upon his return from a foreign assignment. "You simply can't tell about the great work, the improvements and the personal sacrifices being done by the air service command on the battlefronts. You have to see it."

AXIS BLASTED 24 HOURS A DAY

BOTH GERMANY AND ITALY are receiving the heaviest aerial blows of the war as Allied air forces carry out "round-the-clock" bombings of both countries. Map at top shows how U. S. Flying Fortresses blasted the German naval bases at Kiel and Bremen, where the bulk of Nazi submarines are built. Meanwhile, following occupation of Pantelleria, Lampedusa and Linosa islands in the Mediterranean, lower map, the Allied forces transferred their 24-hour-a-day blasting to Sicily as reports were received that civilians were being evacuated from the island to the Italian mainland. ## AROUSSED HOUSE DRIVES ON OPA

OPA would prohibit the payment of salary funds to any official of the agency who administered or placed into operation subsidies.

The other would ban salary payment to anyone imposing or enforcing a fine or jail sentence not specifically prescribed in statutes by congress.

Taber charged that the original price control act was passed "with the deliberate purpose of wrecking the small merchant and the small businessman," and that the second act had the "deliberate purpose of wrecking the farmer," and that despite a change of administrators "long-haired professors even now are in key positions making decisions."

The subsidy moves he described as "ignorant and foolish operations inspired, I believe, directly by the President."

The immediate action on OPA and the inevitable battle on both sides of the capital over funds for the war agencies threatened to be one of the hottest and most-drawn-out of the 75th congress.

No subject of discussion since the wave of anti-Leon Henderson feeling swept congress last Fall, ending in his resignation six months ago, had so dominated house sessions.

House members almost daily on all phases of the OPA program in recent weeks. Disposal of the appropriation bill was not expected to end their activities.

On the profit-control dispute, Henry Hart, associate general counsel of OPA, made a statement on behalf of Price Administrator Prentiss Brown in which he said OPA has "never sought" to control profits as such and lacks authority to do so. But the Smith committee at the same time received a "confidential" memo from OPA files, which Hart admitted he had signed, stating:

"The price administrator has a mandate that 'wherever he takes price action (for whatever reason), he is obligated to reduce profits to the lowest level to which they may legally be reduced.'"

"The interest of this committee," Allen said, "lies in the fact that a group of employees in one government bureau have usurped the power to set any profit standards whatever; and by those standards to control and regulate all American industry without congressional approval or assent."

"The setting of a legislative standard of profits defining what are to be considered 'reasonable' or 'unreasonable,' 'exorbitant' or 'not exorbitant,' is a legislative function to be exercised only by congress, if it can constitutionally do so."

"The implications of the authority assumed by the OPA are so startling that it is only necessary to indicate that they constitute an attempt to bring the entire American system of free enterprise under government control and domination by the exercise of a price fixing mechanism, intended by congress only to prevent war-time inflation."

economy while we might take heed. We have undertaken a tremendous task, which will strain our resources to the utmost, to supply armed forces all over the world, but unnecessary expenses in the army and navy and overlapping agencies throughout the country is a point of irritation to the people."

Cites Hotel Purchases

While declining to specify army and navy extravagances, George pointed to the purchase of many large hotels, which the army now is trying to sell.

George said that there should be a board devoting itself night and day to eliminating unnecessary federal expenditures and seeking economies.

"The people who come in contact with overcrowded agencies are beginning to complain," he said. "There will be a real upheaval in the country springing from the taxpayers, as they become more and more conscious that their tax bills are growing higher."

"I can see where we are headed and I can see the end when the people realize they are footing the bill and that many of these unnecessary activities are competitive with the average individual in his struggle to get along."

"Of course, it is difficult to effect economies in war time, and we have got used to tremendous outlays. But there is no surer way of breaking down the war effort than by forcing the people to carry the burden of extravagance and waste."

American loss of only six planes.

Tokyo came up today with a claim, unsubstantiated in Washington, that during the battle Jap planes sank eight American surface ships—a destroyer, four large transports, two medium-sized transports and a small transport. Tokyo further claimed that 32 American planes were shot down and that only 20 Japanese aircraft failed to return.

The navy department communique made no mention whatsoever of surface ships being involved in the engagement.

Aerial warfare over Europe was comparatively light. British Whirlwinds, Typhoons and Mosquito planes during the night attacked railroad targets and an enemy flying field in France and raked barges and an enemy E-boat off the French coast.

German hit-run air raiders dropped bombs on the outskirts of London, one of which set a post office afire. American and British soldiers dragged mail pouches from the burning building. Several of the soldiers were burned and injured.

Moscow reported the repulse of new counter-attacks by German troops near Mtsensk, northeast of the Nazi base at Orel. Red army units also inflicted heavy losses on German forces attempting to penetrate Russian lines on the central front west of Moscow.

Soviet airmen continued to assault airdromes behind the German lines.

MRS. KOCHHEISER QUILTS POST AS HOSPITAL CHIEF

Mrs. Bess Kochheiser, superintendent at Berger hospital, since April 1, has submitted her resignation to become effective July 1, or as soon as a successor can be named.

Mrs. Kochheiser succeeded Mrs. Elizabeth Lumpe on April 1, taking the post temporarily. Since taking the hospital position her husband, Willis C. Kochheiser, has become sole owner of the Hunter Hardware Co., so she plans to devote part of her time to assisting him in the hardware business.

City officials are expected to interview candidates for superintendent during the next few days.

TO ALL WORKERS

DEAR FRIENDS: Don't ask the boss to pay the 20 percent to be deducted from your earnings beginning July 1 under the pay-as-you-go income tax system. The boss will not be permitted to give it to you. The WLB has declared that it will not recognize the effect of the tax on the workers' income as a basis for approval of a wage or salary increase. Incidentally, this new tax will make a lot of us more tax conscious than we ever have been before and probably force use to realize that any and all federal expenditures come either directly or indirectly out of our pockets. Pay your 20 percent, but don't forget about it. Remember it and keep your eyes on governmental extravagancies.

TO LUTHERAN BOYS

DEAR KIDS: Don't let anyone kid you about that baseball defeat administered by the Lutheran girls. Everyone who is older than a kid knows positively that women always win one way or another. Consider how many times you have seen Dad run up the white flag. No, you have no reason to feel ashamed. You are just learning your lesson a little earlier than most.
CIRCUITEER.

CIRCUITEER.

TO WAR JOB HOLDERS

MEN, WOMEN AND YOUNGSTERS: Congratulations on the roles you are playing in the war effort. Your absenteeism percentage is far below the average, indicating realization of the importance of the work you are doing. Your part in the war is every bit as necessary as that of the soldier, sailor or marine. They could not fight except for your production. Incidentally, you are dependent on them. Keep the fighters well supplied and never let them down in any manner. That is the duty of every American who is not actually in the armed service.
CIRCUITEER.

TO ALL BOYS

DEAR KIDS: The chief of police tells me that many of you are hopping rides on autos and trucks. He says that unless you halt the practice that it will be necessary to take some of you to city court.

You don't want that; neither does he. The chief is acting solely in your interest. He does not wish to see boys hurt, and some of you car hoppers are bound to run into an accident. Oh sure, I know it will not be you, but it would be. What little fun there is in hopping cars is more than offset by death or injury. A car weighing more than a ton does more than tickle when it runs over you. Think it over.
CIRCUITEER.

TO CHARLIE RADCLIFF

DEAR CHARLIE: Congratulations on identification of Charles Finch, known hereabouts as Donald Eugene Carson, and wanted in Indiana for murder. Except for your vigilance he might have escaped.
CIRCUITEER.

TO SENATOR TAFT

DEAR BOB: Please lend an attentive ear to the story of the Ohio River Improvement Association. The condition of our rivers and creeks in these parts and the decline of our water level are something for serious consideration. Unless some action is taken in the not distant future the condition may become beyond the stage of repair. While the chief intent is to help control floods, dams in Paint, Deer and Darby creeks would prove of great benefit to all land owners of the district.
CIRCUITEER.

TO MOTORISTS

ALL OF YOU: That $5 time is here again. You must buy another federal use stamp and display it on your car beginning July 1. That is, display it as long as the "stickum" lasts, which is until your windshield sweats for the first time. I doubt very much that a Republican administration could make them stick any better.
CIRCUITEER.

TO THE WEATHERMAN

UNPOPULAR Person: We are getting mighty tired of your daily thunderstorms predictions. We could do very well with a dry spell that would permit us to complete our planting and harvest our pea crop to the best advantage. Re-lent a little, will you?
CIRCUITEER.

TO VOLUNTEER CANNERS

DEAR FRIENDS: Volunteering your services during the rush time of pea canning is a fine patriotic demonstration. To give of your time when your own business is making such heavy demands on you is further demonstration of the fact that this ville is populated by some mighty fine folk.
CIRCUITEER.

TO SILEX COMPANY

FIRM: The story of your company's program, told to the Kiwanis club recently by Joel Backus, your manager, was indeed an enlightening one. That you have produced more than 1,000,000 coffee makers; that you are just starting to obtain the production you expect; that 80 persons are given work every day in Circleville; that you are noiding great hopes for the post-war period. These are all items interesting to all of us. We feel quite proud that the Silex plant chose Circleville for its factory, and we hope that the company's years of business are many and that they are successful ones.

DIET AND HEALTH

More Salt Is Needed In Diets For Summer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THIS ARTICLE is intended to be read, marked and inwardly digested at the beginning of summer.
I do not know where, or in what particular condition of freedom, imprisonment or servitude Mr. Gandhi will be when this article appears in print. I have mixed emotions about Mr. Gandhi, but I do not intend to deal here with his political, religious, or to any great extent, his dietary views. But as a bio-chemist, even a political bio-chemist, I commend Mr. Gandhi wholeheartedly. Some time ago Mr. Gandhi's platform was based on his protest against the British monopoly on salt in India. In this, I think Mr. Gandhi was perfectly correct, certainly so far as India is concerned.
In North America, for at least eight months of the year, salt is a condiment and we could do with a good deal less than we actually consume, as is shown by the fact that we excrete large quantities of it. The amount of salt which is necessary for an adult per day, according to the scientific dietitians, is 5 grams, which is hardly more than one-third teaspoonful. Most of us use three or four times that amount.
Need Salt in Summer
It does not follow, as food fadists believe, that our health would be improved if we ate less salt but in the winter time at least few of us would suffer in health on a smaller consumption.
This is true for North America in the winter time, but it is not true for India and it is not true for most of North America in the summer time.
Our knowledge of the necessity for salt goes back to some investigations by Professor Moess, who was professor of mining at the University of Birmingham, on the diet of coal miners. He found that miners preferred and used astonishing quantities of salty foods, such as bacon and red herring. They also used a great deal of table salt and always salted their food heavily.
It was shown that this instinctive preference was simply to make up for the salt lost in sweating. The world's sweating record of two quarts in an hour is held by an English coal miner; many of them will lose as much as 18

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. N. S.:—Is an infant weighing 6½ pounds, yet born at seven months considered premature? Does the weight or the month when born indicate a premature baby?
Answer: The month. No matter how much the baby weighs, if born at seven months it is premature.
A. Z.: What is a functional murmur of the heart? Will a person have a functional murmur when he has a cold or when he is nervous or excited?
Answer: Functional murmurs of the heart are very common and are not due to any organic disease of the heart, such as valvular disease or high blood pressure. They are likely to be caused by such things as you mention—a cold or nervousness or perhaps a thin condition of the blood.
H. G.:—Does everyone have a pneumonia germ, the same as a t.b. germ, and when the system is run down, the germ develops? Is pneumonia contagious?
Answer: Medical science has not exactly decided the answer to these questions. In some cases there are carriers of pneumonia and as you say, when they are run down, the germs in the mouth attack the lungs. Pneumonia is not considered particularly contagious.
R. E. H.:—Could an internal hernia, just above the navel, eventually cause irregularity of the heart?
Answer: These epigastric hernias are not more serious than any other kind and do not affect the heart.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE
ALVERO STREET was flooded with the late afternoon sun as Jean drove home from the office. Only towering eucalyptus and leafy pepper trees were dark pools of shadow. She had just wheeled the station wagon into the hotel courtyard and came to a stop when she heard the scream of brakes behind her. She turned in time to see Curley draw up to the curb and come striding toward her car, sunlight touching his dark face and edging the waves of his crisp, black hair. Jean sat waiting, struggling to control a quiver of happiness.
"Hello, stranger," he called. "So you gave us the slip at the rancho for this pile of crumbling stone?"
"I had so much work to do," Jean murmured. "I felt I should be near the office. We're even going back some nights now, you know."
Curley fixed her with a rueful grin as he draped his arms over the station wagon door. "We sure miss you, no foolin'; the old place just isn't the same without you."
It was on the tip of Jean's tongue to ask if Rosita no longer amused him, but somehow when she looked at him the words wouldn't come.
"When you coming back?" he coaxed.
"Oh, I don't know. Not as long as business is as rushing as it is now. I feel Steve needs me."
Curley grinned visibly at the name of Steve. He took his arms off the car door and shrugged hopelessly. "Well, I guess you know you're always welcome out there," he said. "Anytime you can come back, we'll be glad to see you."
"Thanks," Jean said briefly, and ran up the flight of stone steps to her room.
After she had closed her door she could feel cold burning her cheeks and her heart pounding maddeningly. She flung her hat on the iron bed and quickly gathered up some hose and undergarments she had laid out to wash. As creamy white socks oozed between her fingers in the china wash bowl, she offered up silent thanks that she could have the privacy of this little boxlike room far away from the heartbeats she had suffered at Rancho Casolina. A smile bent the corners of her mouth as she surveyed the bareness of her room. "And to think," she mused half-aloud, "Jean Marsden, head model for Henri's Furs, could actually enjoy living in a place like this!" She rinsed her lingerie and hung the articles on a line she had stretched from the corner of the dresser to one of the wooden spindles that formed the window grating.
A knock came at the door and Jean opened it on the broad smiling face of her landlady. "That Steve fellow just call," she beamed excitedly, "and he say tell Senorita Jean to be ready in 20 minutes; he take you to San Pedro for fine Americano dinner."

Jean hummed softly as she hurried through a quick shower, brushed her hair until it took on the gold glint of the sun, and slipped into a flame-colored dress that brought out her lovely coloring. She had just tucked the last wisp of blond hair under a white turban when she heard Steve's car drive into the courtyard. She turned the key in her door and ran down to meet him.
"What momentous occasion is this that calls for such celebration?" she said when she was seated beside Steve and the car was rolling out into the quiet street.
"Well, if I were a little younger and hadn't knocked around this old world for the past 10 years I would say it was a plain case of homesickness," Steve grinned.
"What—you homesick?" Jean said incredulously.
"Well, not exactly homesick, but darned good and ready for a good old T-bone steak and some French fries."
"Oh, so it's purely gastronomical," Jean laughed.
"I guess so—if you must put it so romantically."
The desert was looking its loveliest just before sundown as they sped along the Mexican National highway toward San Pedro. Purple mountains, deep now in shadow, rose solidly toward a gray sky washed with orange. The desert floor was a soft, warm brown, with cacti flinging out long shadows in a darker shade. Jean and Steve rode most of the 10 miles in pleasant silence. It was nice, Jean thought, to rest your head back on the softness of the cushions, with the gentle wind cool on your cheeks and let beauty like this float by. Suddenly low buildings reared their heads and Jean realized they were flashing into the outskirts of the town. Steve pulled up in front of a small, but very modern hotel, shining with chromium and black marble.
"Here we are," he said gaily.
For a long time afterward Jean looked back on the next two hours as two of her happiest in Mexico. The sight of a modern dining room with even rows of tables shining with white linen, deep red carpet that felt springy under foot, a modern American dance band softly playing "A White Christmas," everything diffused under soft light. Both she and Steve ate until they were in misery. Then they danced. They laughed easily. They kidded each other until suddenly Jean glanced at her watch and was amazed to see that it was midnight. She and Steve had just finished a dance and were coming back to the table.
"Do you know what time it is?" Jean said, her eyes wide and shining.

"Must be almost 10," Steve answered.
"It's exactly four minutes after 12 o'clock!"
They left then. Steve let the car idle along under the softness of a star-studded sky. A cold wind was sweeping down the mountain slopes. Jean tucked her coat collar closer around her neck and instinctively moved until her shoulder was touching Steve's.
"Happy?" Steve said quietly.
"Infinitely so," Jean purred.
"I was just thinking," Steve said, "how wrong I was about you that first day I saw you for your interview."
"I know," Jean said almost dreamily. "You thought, here's one of those clothes models who are nice to look at but utterly useless."
"Something like that," Steve admitted, "and now I don't know what I'd do without you. You've done a swell job both at the office and in getting valuable information for me."
"Sometimes I feel like a Mata Hari," Jean replied.
"Mata Hari are necessary during war time and are heroes as much as the men on the front lines."
"I know," Jean said.
They rode on in silence for awhile with only the wind singing its night song. Steve reached out to pat her hand.
"I'm glad you like our 'old home' evening."
She sensed a hidden significance behind the casual words.
"Sometimes," he went on carefully, "the strangeness of a different country confuses people, makes them believe temporarily they have changed themselves. They think they could love and adapt themselves to the place—but they're only glamorized by it."
She smiled dimly. She knew well he was speaking, not of a country, but of Curley. He was so gentle, so tactful. And he was right. This was her life—this world Steve had brought her back into tonight. A comfortable, familiar world, flavored with ease and stimulations, but not to the wild, tumultuous extremes that she had known with Curley.
She smiled at Steve with sudden companionship. "Next year I shall be saying, 'It was such an exotic country and I met the most romantic man by the name of Curley.'"
"He is a handsome fellow," conceded Steve slowly. "I can understand his appeal to women. But Nature has an odd way of compensation. If a fellow like that just had the stability and horse sense along with his looks he'd be a world beater. The trouble with Curley is he'll never grow up. He still wants to play cowboy and Indian instead of shouldering the responsibilities of becoming a man."

- My country claims me all, claims every passion; her liberty henceforth be all my thought; for her, my life I'd willingly resign, and say with transport that the gain was mine.—Martyn.
- Hints on Etiquette
- If you allow your children to listen to certain radio programs, don't interrupt them during the program unless absolutely necessary. Of course you should then expect them to show you the same courtesy when you are listening to your favorite program.
- Today's Horoscope
- You have a charming, interesting personality, if your birthday is today, but you must cultivate a more positive attitude toward life. Don't let obstacles deter you. Be more forceful and dominating and self-reliant. Stay close to your home and your accustomed habits in the wee small hours of this morning. Nefarious plots are being hatched this night. Don't do anything to antagonize a member of your family. If you have neglected something that you should have done before, you may find yourself in a tight spot. Get up early to take care of it.

For Friday, June 18
THE LUNAR aspects of this day must be considered as generally adverse. There is much danger of being carried to disagreeable extremes or irregularities of conduct, through treachery. Shun all intrigues and erratic friction or discord with elders, superiors or those in authority, make plans on upright and straightforward lines, and all may turn out satisfactorily.
If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of curious or peculiar events. The forces and mentality may be chaotic and confused, prompting unwise behavior. This may be largely owing to antagonisms or breaks with those in powerful positions. With regard for the health, proper management of hunches or urges for a sane and balanced course of action, all may ultimately be gratifying and inaugurate some unexpected benefits.
A child born on this day may have exceptional talents, and be studious and profound, but certain erratic or confused tendencies may turn its benefactors against it. Supervision of its mental and nervous tension is recommended.

Wallace Favors Some Sort of Union of American Nations | Common Philosophy Drawing Hemisphere Peoples Together
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist
● VICE PRESIDENT HENRY A. WALLACE is considerably criticized for his statement, in his initial speech, following his return from a tour of Latin American republics, that one of Uncle Sam's main jobs of the postwar period will be the freeing of "all the Americas from disease and hunger."
According to Henry, the "deepest meaning" of our Yankee philosophy lies in its devotion to the "welfare and brotherhood of the plain people of the world."
Being just back from that trip through the southern Americas, he has his populations particularly in mind, he specializes on them anyway. He has taken the trouble to learn Latin American Spanish and Portuguese, which are not exactly the same lingos as their European originals, but which approximate them pretty closely. This is the "globalony" that he has been "joshed" for.
However, Henry was speaking on the occasion of an "I Am an American Day" in New York recently. His subject was not 100 per cent global. It was only semi-so. Without prejudice to the rest of the earth's folk, Henry was addressing himself especially to our sides of, respectively, the Atlantic and the Pacific.
President Roosevelt is the apostle of "good neighborliness." He classifies the neighbors as inclusive of everybody from the Canadian border to Cape Horn—plus Canada, if the Canucks agree. Henry Wallace comes closer to an AMERICAN federation. We will be one gigantic country if he has his way.
Now there are a few groups of countries that might be able to merge. Perhaps we and Britain could do it. We are a good deal alike. France, Italy and Spain perhaps could tie up together, but their combination would not mix very well with our Anglo-Saxon outfit. Russia would be difficult to absorb in any combination of other ingredients. The Chinese, though nice folk, are pretty different from the rest of us. And of course it will be a matter of generations before there can be any commingling of the democratic peoples with the Germans and Japs.

That's what seems to be the matter with the argument for a single world government which some idealists are advocating.
I surmise that Henry Wallace is globular enough to swallow the whole dose if sufficiently urged. That is not what he is talking about now, though. We and the Latin Americas are the nationalists he is trying to unite (more or less) and darned if that does not look to me, as an old resident below the equator, like an impracticability.
Our race and the Latin Americans differ a trifle, and so do our languages—considerably.
Our geographies are congenial, nevertheless, and all of us are sympathetically democratic or republican—none of us very totalitarian or Communist.
We have a fairly well established system of industry and finance and the Latins are skimpier on them.
They need our promotion and we need their area of potential activity to expand and develop.
We Yankees (an extremely few of us) long have recognized the good chances offered to us in the sub-equatorial new world, to get into the latter to exploit it for our own benefit, just as was done in earlier days in our own wild west—but it was done at the earlier settlers' expense. They did the hard work and we northern pre-pioneers scooped in the profits.
They continued until the beginning of the era of Rooseveltian "good neighborliness," and for a short while afterward, while it was percolating through the news worldlings' minds that Yankeeism was making a legitimate bid for partisanship with them, rather than for unqualified exploitation.

Helen Ramsey Hitt And Karl E. Hunn Married

Pretty Wedding Performed At Chillicothe

Wearing a two-piece dress of white silk and a large black chignon hat trimmed with pink rose buds, Miss Helen Ramsey Hitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Hitt of Church street, Chillicothe, became the bride of Karl E. Hunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hunn of that city. The Rev. Fr. J. Kreuskamp read the double ring service Thursday at 10 a. m. in the rectory of St. Peter's church. Members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present.

The bride is a granddaughter of John M. Hitt and niece of Mrs. Beulah Madison of North Scioto street.

Mrs. Eugene Morrison was matron of honor, wearing for the occasion a white-dotted green suit, large natural straw hat and a corsage of pink roses. William Hamm served as best man for Mr. Hunn.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hitt chose a two-piece dusty-rose dress with large purple straw hat and Mrs. Hunn, mother of the bridegroom, wore aqua with black accessories.

Vari-colored flowers in lovely arrangements decorated the dining room of the Town House for the wedding breakfast entertained immediately after the ceremony, by Mr. and Mrs. Hitt. Members of the bridal party and others at the service were guests.

Mixed white flowers and a large wedding cake graced the bride's table.

The former Miss Hitt attended Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio universities and is employed at the Ross county War Rationing Board.

Mr. Hunn is a graduate of Notre Dame university and did post-graduate work at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. He is associated with his father in the meat business.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Hunn will live at 635 Oneida road, Chillicothe.

John Describes True Christians

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 20 is I John, the Golden Text being I John 1:7. "But if we walk in the light, as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus His Son cleanseth us from all sin.")

THE ENTIRE first epistle of John is our lesson today, and in it John addresses the churches of proconsular Asia. He was well acquainted with the people of these churches, as he had lived in Ephesus, the center of the district, and he was accustomed to make them pastoral visits. He writes to them as a spiritual father, one acquainted with their temptations and needs, and the dangers which threatened their churches.

John reminds his friends, whom he addresses affectionately as "My little children," "little children," "beloved," that he has known Jesus and been with Him. That "we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you eternal life," and "these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full."

The message John had for his friends was that "God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all." If we have fellowship with God, then we walk in the light. And if we walk in the light we also have fellowship with one another.

Now as concerns sin, he advises that if they think they have no sin because they are Christians, they deceive themselves. If they confess their sins, however, God is just to forgive them.

Love the Keynote
Love is the keynote of the Christian life, according to John. "A new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in Him in you: because the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth."

The love of the world is not what Christians should strive for. The world and the things of the world, material pleasures, riches, etc., are not the real wealth of man. "The world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

Even little children can understand that if they are naughty, disobedient, doing just what they want to do regardless of their parents' commands or what they have been brought up to know as right, they will not be really happy. Only by obeying their consciences, which are really quite well developed in children, can they be at peace and really be happy in their hearts.

"This is the message that ye heard from the beginning," John writes in Chapter 3, Verse 11, "that we should love one another."

"He that loveth not his brother is a murderer," even as Cain was a murderer. A person who hates another may not kill him physically, but if he allows that hatred to remain in his mind, he might almost as well do the one he hates physical harm. The will to murder is in his heart. And how can anyone be a follower of Jesus who allows this feeling to dwell in his heart? Children are quick to quarrel and even to strike each other, but they should be taught that they must control their tempers and love one another if they would be followers of Jesus, who laid down His life for us. Children's quarrels are short-lived, however. They are soon forgotten and forgiven.

Likewise the love of God does not dwell in him who has a goodly supply of this world's goods, and who does not share with his needy brother. "My little children," writes John, "let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth."

We will know in our hearts if we are doing right, if we keep His commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in His sight.

"There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."

Fear is torment. How can we cast out fear—fear of every kind? By having perfect love and faith we can cast out fear. Wouldn't that be wonderful, to truthfully say that we are not afraid of anything?

"For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments: and His commandments are not grievous."

Admission free.

ASHVILLE
In between times when not on their regular jobs, Nolan Murphy, our school commercial teacher, and Charles Eversole, Seventh Grade operator, are keeping things shined up out at the school building, Murphy painting the frame work of the windows and Eversole in charge of school grounds, keeping lawns and shrubbery in presentable shape. Mr. Fullen, in charge of athletics and part time Sixth Grade teacher, while vacationing, is one of the several from here who assists "Pappy" Fischer and son "Bill" with their commission house operations at the Capital City. The several other teachers at vacation work, if any, will be getting soundings on them when once we get going better again.

Ashville
A. W. Graham, with the N. & W. railway as signal operator for a long while, and who has been for a couple of weeks recovering from sickness, was in the downtown section yesterday and hopes to be at work soon.

Guard Health of Corn in Victory Garden

THE AMATEUR gardener rarely thinks of corn as a Victory vegetable which must be protected against disease, with the possible exception of attacks by the corn borer. There are other ailments of corn, however, against which the Victory gardener should maintain an alert.

The most common, as well as the most destructive disease affecting corn is that called smut. This fungus infection can attack the plant at any period of its growing season on tassel, stalk, leaf or ear. The infected area, at first, appears a glistening white or as a pale, swollen area. Soon afterwards the infected area becomes dark-colored, enlarged and distorted. As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, these infected enlargements often have the appearance of boils.

McAFEE UNABLE TO PARTICIPATE AS WOLVERINE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 18 — George McAfee, former all-American halfback at Duke and later a Chicago Bears star, who is now a naval instructor at the University of Michigan, will not be available for football, Coach Herbert "Fritz" Crisler explained today.

Crisler explained that men in uniform are eligible for the sport under Western Conference rules only if they are receiving instruction from the faculty of the university.

The Wolverine coach said he did not know whether Elroy Hirsch, brilliant Wisconsin ball carrier, will be at Michigan with a naval specialized training group due to arrive in Ann Arbor July 1. Hirsch was reported in Madison, Wis., to be on his way to Michigan.

MUD HENS LOSE TWO CONTESTS, GO UNDER .500

By International News Service
 The Toledo Mud Hens, once considered a challenge to the league leading Indians, today found themselves on the losing end of both games of last night's twin bill at Indianapolis. The defeats, the fourth and fifth in a row for the Mud Hens, dropped them below the .500 level in the standings.

Bob Hogan outpitched Johnny Whitehead to win the seven-inning twilight game 4 to 2. In the nightcap Jim Trexler conquered the three Mud Hens hurlers, winning 6 to 0. The Hen pitchers were Kimberlin, Seinsch and Fannin.

At Louisville, the Columbus Red Birds won the first game of their present six-game series with the Colonels to the tune of 2 to 0. Kenny Burkhardt fought a mound duel with Colonel hurler Norman Brown for seven innings and then turned over the mound to Red Barrett after retiring for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The Brewers of Milwaukee slugged it out with the Minneapolis Millers on their home grounds to win a 4 to 0 victory and knock the Millers out of a second place tie. Joe Berry on the mound for the Brewers gave with only four hits. It was his first shutout of the year and gave the home team the fourth straight victory. Horton and Mosley pitched for the visitors.

Two Antiquated Stars Deliver Payoff Blows In American Loop Tilts

By Lawton Carver
 NEW YORK, June 18—Joe Cronin and Luke Appling, a pair of elderly shortstops as baseball ages, go, have belted their way into the headlines with performances unique in this year of light unimpressive hitting. Cronin, manager of the Red Sox and no longer to be considered the active youngster of yore, really plastered himself up there in the big type today. Ted Williams, the erstwhile young fence buster of his club now slugging in the air corps for Uncle Sam, never did much better than the boss yesterday.

Cronin put himself in a pinch-hitter in each game of a double-header with the Philadelphia Athletics and on each occasion delivered a home run with two on. The only thing that kept him doing better for the day was that it wasn't a triple-header. That and the fact that only two instead of three were on the sacks.

His first homer paved the way to a Red Sox victory. His second put them in the ball game, but the A's went on to a triumph.

The point is, Cronin, who soon will be 37 and admittedly no longer can step around at short as he would like to, still can hit that pitching in this year and show the young-gents on his club how to slam them out in the clutch.

The Red Sox deserve a better fate than their present position in the standings, which is down there in what is known as the nethermost depths. They should be riding much higher and probably would be if Cronin could shed, say, about 10 years and be in there every day swinging and playing that shortstop as he used to when he was about as good a hitter as you could find in the business.

Appling, 34-year-old shortstop for the White Sox, delivered a couple of telling blows during a hectic afternoon as his club beat the St. Louis Browns.

He came up in the ninth with the Sox trailing 3 to 1, and promptly smacked a two-bagger that sent in two runs to knot it.

They rocked along into the last half of the 13th when he found himself at the plate again with Don Kolloway on second and ready to come tearing for the plate with any help at all. Appling met the

Two in a Night

NEW YORK, June 18—The Cincinnati Reds today opened at Pittsburgh in a series that will temporarily settle third place in the National league and possibly have something to say about second place unless the Brooklyn Dodgers suddenly get going again.

The latter have gone into a tail-spin with four losses in a row and now are three games behind the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals and only two ahead of the Reds, with the Pirates another game farther back.

The Reds' pitching staff has rounded into shape at a time when the Dodgers, in particular, are floundering, and the Cincinnati club may yet prove to be the one the Cards will have to beat for the pennant. As some have insisted from the start.

In beating the Cards yesterday, 6 to 1, the Reds got a five-hit mound performance from Elmer Riddle, who thus won his seventh game against three defeats, and at the same time handed Howie Kriest his initial loss of the season after three wins.

Highs Thumped
 The Dodgers blew their third game series with the New York Giants—as a follow up to a previous loss—when the ultimate winners leaped on Kirby Higbe for five runs in the first inning, as further indication of the Dodgers' collapse on the mound. The final count was 8 to 5. Manager Mel Ott of the Giants managed a highlight when he tied his own National league record with five bases on balls in a single game.

The Pirates took it on the chin when Ival Goodman hit a fourth inning homer with two on for the margin of victory, 3 to 2, as the Chicago Cubs snapped a five-game losing streak behind Paul Derringer in a game out to seven innings. Derringer allowed only six hits.

The Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Braves split a double header, the former bowing before Manuel Salvo's four-hitter, 2 to 0, and coming back in the nightcap for a 7 to 2 victory to take the series by four games to one.

The New York Yankees increased their American league lead to four games over the second place Senators with a 9 to 8 victory achieved in the ninth when Early Wynn, Senator hurler, walked in the last of three Yank runs in that frame to beat his own club.

One of the day's outstanding performances was presented by Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox against the Philadelphia Athletics. The veteran shortstop came up as a pinch-hitter in each end of a double header with two men on and in each instance blasted out a homer, the first enabling the Sox to win, 5 to 4, but the second serving no purpose. The A's took the game, 8 to 7.

Another Frank Merriwell performance was put on by Luke Appling at Chicago, as the White Sox beat the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3, in 13 innings.

Appling doubled in the ninth to drive in two runs and tie the score, and in the 13th he singled Don Kolloway home from second with the winning run.

At Cleveland the Indians overcame a two-run homer by Pinky Higgins of the Detroit Tigers in the seventh inning to take a 12-inning ball game 6 to 5. This gave the Indians a clean sweep of the two-game series.

The Redmen copped the first game of the twilight double-bill by scoring three runs in the ninth frame for a 3 to 2 decision.

Swedish racing star, Gunder Hagg, Rickenbacker is chairman of the committee sponsoring the National AAU meet in New York on Saturday.

BAG TO PORT HURON

The Duffel Bag, crammed full of cigarettes forfeited by contestants who don't know all the answers posed by Quizmaster Bob Hawk on the CBS comedy quiz, "Thanks to the Yanks," (Saturdays, 7:30 p. m.), will go this week to the men stationed at the Port Huron Lifeboat Station, Port Huron, Mich. The most obscure service camps which can be found are selected to receive the weekly Duffel Bag.

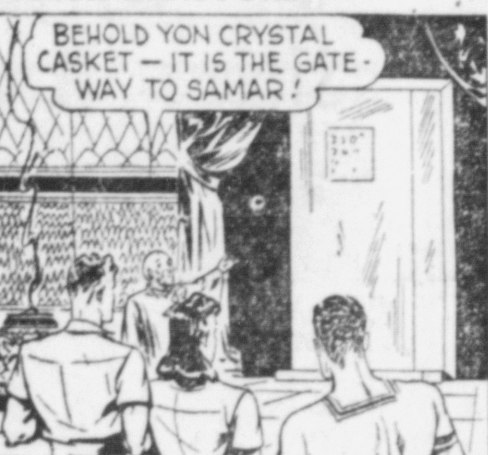

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

John Charles Thomas, Victor Young's concert orchestra and the Ken Darby male chorus will premiere the U. S. Army Tank Corps' new marching song, "Men of Iron," as the highlight of their broadcast on Sunday, June 20, at 2:30 p. m., over station WLW. The song was written by W. R. Mason, of the utilities company which sponsors the series, after he had spent four weeks filming maneuvers and tests at Fort Knox, Ky. Other music includes the prelude from Sir Landon Ronald's "Cycle of Life," sung by Thomas; "Dream Lover," played by the orchestra; "Sweet and Low," sung by the baritone Thomas; "Men of Iron" and "Tenting Tonight," sung by the chorus; "Perfidia," featuring the orchestra, and "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp Along the Highway," by the entire ensemble. John Nesbitt will tell another of his stories of the "Passing Parade."

"GAY NINETIES REVUE"

Another program of nostalgic tunes of the Mauve Decade will be presented, when "Gay Nineties Revue" airs on Monday, June 21, at 8:30 p. m. over station WBNS. The music list includes "My Mother's Romance," sung by the quartet; "I'll

"Harrigan," by Joe Howard; and "The Caissons Go Rolling Along," by the entire ensemble.

BOYER AND SCOTT

One of the week's high spots will be the "Screen Guild Players" radio adaptation of the famous movie, "Back Street," with two of the screen's greatest personalities, Charles Boyer and Martha Scott, starred in the two leading roles. This will be broadcast over station WBNS at 10 p. m. Monday, June 21, and will mark the first time these two emotional stars have been paired for a radio presentation. Highly regarded both as a literary work and as a dramatic offering, "Back Street" is high on the list of the "ten best movies" of the last ten years.

DEAN MURPHY

Dean Murphy, the Ziegfeld Follies mimic whose impersonation of President Roosevelt is so accurate that it earned him a command performance at the White House, finds himself doing an imitation of a quiz show attendant, when he appears as Wally Butterworth's featured guest on his "Take-A-Card" quiz, on Wednesday, June 23, at 8:30 p. m., over station WHKC. He'll be one of five contestants who will be assigned their questions and prizes in accordance with the cards they select from a giant-sized bridge deck.

MILLS BROTHERS

The Mills Brothers sing "Paper Doll," the arrangement which sold

400,000 records in sixty days, when they appear as guests of Mary Astor, Misha Auer and Charles Ruggles in the "Surprise Package" feature of their program, on Thursday, June 24, at 8 p. m., over station WBNS.

Groucho Marx, star of radio's "Blue Ribbon Town," may be back in pictures this fall with Brothers Chico and Harpo! Discussions are already under way. Groucho earlier had announced he would make no more films.

County Housewives To Benefit By Meat Price Roll-Back

OHIO SAVINGS ESTIMATED AT TEN PER CENT

Reduction Set For Monday Exempts Only Cured, Processed Pork

PRODUCER NOT AFFECTED

Government Subsidies To Slaughterers To Take Up Profit Slack

Starting Monday, housewives of Circleville and Pickaway county will find their meat costs reduced somewhat when the government's recently-announced intention to roll back the price of meat becomes a reality. Meat costs are expected to be reduced an average of 10 percent in Ohio.

The reduction Monday applies to all meat except cured and processed pork for which the effective date of the rollback will be July 5. The reduction in meat will be less than three cents a pound on some of the cheaper cuts and more than three cents on some of the more expensive.

The meat price reduction is being made without imposing its effects on the farm producer, government subsidies being used to keep the farmer's payments up.

To Pay Subsidies

The payments to slaughterers to compensate for the price reduction will be based on the live weight of livestock slaughtered and will be equivalent to approximately two cents a pound on the dressed carcasses.

The subsidy became effective June 7 for slaughterers and the ceiling prices on all fresh and frozen meats were reduced at the packer level June 14. At wholesale level the prices will be reduced Saturday and will reach the retail level and the housewife's pocketbook Monday.

The price reduction on cured and processed pork and dried and corned beef will be required at the slaughter level on June 28 and for the wholesaler and retailer on July 5.

New Prices Listed

The new prices will be printed on posters which are being distributed to retailers throughout the region of Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana. A requirement of the regulation is that the meat merchant post the prices where they are clearly visible to the housewife.

Here are some comparisons of new prices on Grade A cuts in small retail establishments as compared with the prices now superseded: round steak, bone-in, old 42, new 36; chuck roast, bone-in, old 33, new 29; hamburger, old 32, new 28; pork chops, center cut, old 42, new 37; lamb loin chops, old 65, new 59; veal cutlet, old 61, new 45; sliced bacon, old 47, new 41.

ROTARIANS HEAR COL. MACKLIN DESCRIBE WAR

Colonel John D. Macklin, U. S. Marine corps, addressed Circleville Rotarians at their regular meeting Thursday noon. Col. Macklin, who was with the Marines at the invasion of Guadalcanal and remained there until the Japs were defeated and the Marines relieved by soldiers, related some of his experiences. He can not be quoted, however, due to censorship restrictions.

Col. Macklin is a native of Pickaway county, his mother still living in Saltcreek township. "This county is a better place to spend a vacation than any place I have seen in the South Pacific," he declared.

ARMY SEEKING INSPECTORS FOR WAR MATERIEL

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Donald R. Whaley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whaley, 138 East Water street, is a member of the U. S. marine corps, but he has had a time proving it to friends in Tucson, Arizona, where he lives. Young Whaley told friends that he had joined the marine corps in a quota for 17-year-olds, but was placed on inactive service to await a call to duty.

Because he did not wear a uniform, friends taunted him about his story that he was in the corps. Irid, he obtained a uniform through aid of some friends and some members of the marine recruiting office to prove that he does belong to the corps.

A clipping from a Tucson newspaper sent to his parents discloses his story. Young Whaley has been in Tucson since March.

Mrs. Austin Hoover of Jackson township has received an interesting book entitled "Armed Guardians, One Year in Iceland" from her brother, Private First Class Dale Lanman, who is serving in Iceland.

Gene F. Brown, 20, son of Mrs. Eltha Brown, 514 South Scioto street, was graduated this week from a course in aircraft engines conducted by the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command at the Wright Aeronautical Corporation in Patterson, N. J. Brown, who had previously graduated from an airplane mechanics school, has been promoted to corporal in recognition of his aptitude for specialized technical work. ## FOOD HANDLERS URGED TO SAVE ALL CONTAINERS

Food handlers including producers and retailers, restaurant operators, hotels and institutions are asked by the War Food Administration to save containers of all kinds in an effort to build up a supply to handle fresh fruits, vegetables and eggs.

All interests handling fresh fruits, vegetables and eggs are requested to make a special effort in handling containers to prevent breakage, to reuse every container possible, and to return empty containers to producers and packers through the medium of resale to used container dealers or direct sale back to growers or their organizations.

Included in the lists of containers for which salvage and reuse is to be encouraged under the program are: various types of baskets, including hampers and bushel baskets; wire bound citrus boxes and celery crates; L-A vegetable crates; lug boxes; bushel boxes; citrus boxes; pepper, berry and lettuce crates; and egg cases.

Demand for containers, the War Food Administration reports, is greater than usual, not only because of increased food production, but also to meet increased export needs of the military forces and other government agencies. At the same time direct war requirements for lumber, nails and wire make it impossible to produce all the new containers which could be used.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Chester (Red) Roush, of Lambert field, St. Louis, Mo., were in Circleville Thursday visiting friends. Lieutenant Roush, who is serving as a physical education instructor for the air corps, is a former Saltcreek township athletic coach. He and his wife, a recent bride, were enroute to St. Louis after a nine-day leave in Winchester, O., Roush's home.

Private First Class Russell E. Carpenter of Circleville will have a birthday anniversary June 25. Greetings should be mailed to him at 317th air base squadron, U. S. army air base, Dordider, La.

New address of Private Marvin Justice, ASN 35635277, is 603rd regiment, 3rd battalion, battery K-C.A. (AA), Lawndale, Cal. He has been at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Private First Class Clinton Roby Jr., of Kingston has completed his course in clerk school at Camp Robinson, Ark., and has been transferred to Camp Blanding, Fla. He is now in the quarter-master corps, his address being 601st QM Co., (G. R.) Camp Blanding, Fla.

SHORTAGE OF BUTTER IS NOT FELT LOCALLY

Butter shortage which has hit many parts of the nation and even many centers in Ohio has not caused difficulty in the Circleville area. Producers report a sufficient supply of butter. The usual Summer slump in milk production is expected to start soon, but barring something unforeseen there will be no crisis here.

Much of the butter produced in Pickaway county is going into government channels, many thousands and pounds each month being shipped to Uncle Sam for his army and navy.

Butter in many parts of the country has gone to war, National Dairy Council reporting that the government is requiring three times as much butter for each man in the armed forces as is available for each civilian.

Last year despite the loss of more than one and one-half million men from farms, dairymen produced 119½ billion pounds of milk or four billion more than had even been produced in this country before. Today, with ever increasing handicaps, dairy farmers are producing more than a year ago.

One interesting figure concerning local production is disclosed by the Pickaway County Dairy Cooperative association, Manager Russell C. Palm declaring that every day 60,000 pounds of skim milk are shipped from the Circleville plant to the government. Although butter shipments from the plant are heavy each month, the amount turned over to the government is not being announced.
